Gov. Morgan Asks War Department For Federal Troops to Halt W. Va. Miners' Army Marching to Mingo

Acting Secretary of War Immediately Orders Force Made Ready.

THOUSAND MEN NEEDED

Estimates from Point Along Line of March Indicate 5,000 to 6,000 Men, Apparently Leaderless, Are Headed for the Williamson Coal Fields.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—For federal troops to prevent further difficulties in Mingo county coal fields of West Virginia were received today at the War Department.

The request for troops, made by Governor Morgan of West Virginia, says that a force of 1,000 men was needed.

Acting Secretary of War, Wainwright, immediately ordered Brigadier General Reed, commander of the Fifth Corps area, with headquarters at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., to hold troops available for quick dispatch to the West Virginia coal field.

Brigadier General Bandholtz, former provost marshal general of the A. D. F. and Colonel S. H. Ford were ordered to "proceed immediately to Charleston to conduct an investigation into the troubled area."

Secretary Wainwright said the administration responded to the appeal of the West Virginia governor who demanded largely that the report made by General Bandholtz.

Governor Morgan, in his message, said a mob of striking miners, heavily armed and equipped with several machine guns, had mobilized near Marmet, 25 miles from Charleston, and now was marching on the Mingo and Logan county mines. Several thousand men already had joined the mob, the governor said, and were raiding stores and engaged in robberies of all sorts, disarming peace officers of the state, forcing interstate trains to give them transportation, breaking into freight cars on the railroad, cutting wires and shooting at telephone repairmen.

The governor said the state authorities were unable to cope with the situation, that the legislature was not in session, and that "federal assistance was imperative."

The West Virginia governor appealed for federal troops last spring when similar fighting occurred in Mingo and Logan counties, but the appeal was denied by President Harding, who announced that he was not convinced the state authorities had exhausted all means at their disposal in quelling disorder.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 25.—State officials, while frankly recognizing the gravity of the situation occasioned by the march of 5,000 to 6,000 miners from Marmet, near Charleston, into Boone county on their way to Mingo county, were silent today as to their plans.

Governor Morgan, who remained in his office until a late hour last night, was back again this morning conferring with members of his cabinet. He sent word to wailing correspondents that he had no statement to make yet but might have something to say before night.

At the office of the state police, Colonel Jackson Arnold, in command, was equally reticent.

Both reached Charleston from points along the highway, unversed in the marching men's ways to the fact that they moved without command. Stories received later in the day that there had been indiscriminate shooting and a number of the marchers had been killed during the night were widely circulated but were not substantiated from any authoritative source.

RACINE, W. Va., Aug. 25.—A crowd of men estimated at between 5,000 and 6,000 reached here this morning from Marmet where they had been encamped for many days, openly said they were marching to the Mingo county coal fields. New pronouncements a month ago by Governor Morgan is still in force. The miners, who without leaders had started out into town, although a compact body, had held to the main highway.

While it was denied by some of the men who talked with citizens that the majority of the marchers were miners determined to carry out their protest against what they termed the "mine guard system," they admitted that others were included in the ranks.

One marcher said a lot of the men were wish men, miners who had been in the World War.

A report received here shortly after noon said the marching men, who passed through here this morning, were miners who had been working in the Indian Creek district this week. There, it was stated, they pitched camp for dinner.

OGALLALA, W. Va., Aug. 25.—About 500 Logan county citizens were under arms at daybreak prepared to hurried to the Boone county border where, according to a adviser of the office of Sheriff Chapman, a party of men marching from Marmet to Mingo county as protest against martial law, there intended to cross the boundary.

Scottdale Class Feasts on Corn at W. E. Mier's Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Mier at Pennsille was the scene last evening of the annual corn roast given by Mr. Mier, for the members of the First Presbyterian church of Scottdale, of which he is teacher. Sixty-three persons—members of the church, their families and friends—were guests at a feast of roast corn, chicken, ham, potatoes and other delicacies that will not be exceeded.

Twenty-seven chickens disappeared before the dinner, in addition to an unestimated quantity of corn, and other good things.

Of the 27 members of the Sunday school class, 23 play musical instruments of various kinds. Instead of drums, they brought reed instruments to the corn roast and entertained those gathered with selection after selection until time for cars.

The feast was served on the lawn, which was brilliantly lighted by electric bulbs by means of extension cords. Members of the class attending were Miss Anna Hardy; J. W. Gearhart; Charles Elmer; John M. Mier; Eugene Tedrow; John M. Mier; Frank Browning; J. Frank Hardy; Frank Krouse; Lydia Gove; Roger Browning; James Jones; Everett Christner; Walter Marts; Cyrus Christian; James Hardy; Samuel Christner; George Herrington; Ray Morris; Walter Christner; Roy Christner; R. ### REGULATIONS FOR MEDICINAL BEER WITHHELD

Treasury Acts in Accord With Disposition of Bill Before Congress.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Decision to withhold issuance of medicinal beer regulations pending Congressional action on proposed anti-beer legislation was reached today by Secretary Mellon and Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair. The decision, an issuance of the regulations was made necessary by the action of the Willis-Campbell bill, which would forbid prescribing of beer as medicine.

The Treasury Department, it was explained, takes the position that since the anti-beer bill had passed both houses of Congress and the question of issue is the final adoption of the measure does not involve the use of beer medicinally, there could be no advantage in promulgating the rules.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 25.—State officials, while frankly recognizing the gravity of the situation occasioned by the march of 5,000 to 6,000 miners from Marmet, near Charleston, into Boone county on their way to Mingo county, were silent today as to their plans.

CITY TAKES ON DESERTED ASPECT BECAUSE PICNIC

Sixteen Hundred, Estimated, Go to Oakford by Trolley, Many by Automobile.

BUSINESS AT STANDSTILL

Connellsville took on a Sunday aspect today, the reason being the annual picnic, coming out at Oakford park under the auspices of Marion L. Bishop Post, The American Legion.

On Wednesday preceding, at 2 o'clock, the conference missionary society will hold its annual meeting, and in the evening a missionary rally will be held. On Thursday morning the conference will open with the usual annual address by the bishop. There will be three sessions held daily, morning, afternoon and evening. The evening meetings will be mostly doatorial, with preaching by some one of the great officers of the church. There will be about 24 ministers and lay delegates in attendance.

Fourteen special cars were put to the park, each one of them being filled to its capacity. It is estimated that between 1,600 and 1,800 people left by trolley car and many more are going over this afternoon. Hundreds went in automobiles. It was estimated.

About every store in the city was closed with the exception of a few fruit and confectionery stands. The drug stores will be closed until 6 o'clock tonight.

Many also went from Dunbar and South Connellsville, which towns are connected with Connellsville for a day of recreation.

The day could hardly be more ideal. There were many "mackinaws" last night among the former service men in charge of the outing when a brisk wind sprang up, and anxious eyes watched to the sky in fear that it would become overcast, but the stars continued to shine and all went to bed satisfied that the early part of the day at least would be favorable.

Stands were established down town in the evening for the sale of tickets for the outing and many were disposed of.

Boy Scouts also canvassed the city during the day and disposed of many good things.

Of the 27 members of the Sunday school class, 23 play musical instruments of various kinds. Instead of drums, they brought reed instruments to the corn roast and entertained those gathered with selection after selection until time for cars.

The feast was served on the lawn, which was brilliantly lighted by electric bulbs by means of extension cords. Members of the class attending were Miss Anna Hardy; J. W. Gearhart; Charles Elmer; John Mier; Eugene Tedrow; John Mier; Frank Browning; J. Frank Hardy; Frank Krouse; Lydia Gove; Roger Browning; James Jones; Everett Christner; Walter Marts; Cyrus Christian; James Hardy; Samuel Christner; George Herrington; Ray Morris; Walter Christner; Roy Christner; R. E. Christner and R. B. Tedrow.

BUSINESS MEN WANT MUCH Some Qualities That Applicant for a Job Had to Show in a Character Test

A New Yorker who, for reasons of delicacy, must be nameless, was recently granted with a tempting offer of employment.

He, which sought his services required from him a scientific character reading by an expert. He was referred to a local psycho-analyst, retained by the concern.

The expert rated him high on latent ability, but deficient in the essential business qualities of "self-esteem and selflessness."

He did not get the job, says Leo. "Sorry," he was told, "but your character shows that you have enough in you to make a success."

Ed, for a week old days when a man was still an "ordinary cuse," was when a man's business record was yet respectable. The man, who has been in business for a number of years, had weighed in advance with a pair of apothecary scales and gauged with a micrometer. And was to him if the acute psycho-detective discerned a tendency to "mockery or human sympathy." He advised the business man to be modesty and unselfishness.

How deeply we wonder, have the doctrines of these latter-day prophets penetrated, the collective business mind of the country at large! Must the model citizen who lists himself on a Sunday morning in a sermon on the brotherhood of man hurry home to a learned treatise on how to despise his neighbor?

What a theme for G. K. Chesterton—or Nietzsche!

GREATEST IN PLAINS STATES

Master of Farm Risks Established by Recreant Kept by the Department of Agriculture.

Risks in the production of three simple crops—corn, wheat and oats—are greatest in the plains states, extending from Texas to North Dakota.

This general fact is established from the large deviation of the yield per acre from the average yield computed by the bureau of crop estimates for each state from the records of 50 years.

On the other hand, the North Atlantic and the western states are regions of comparatively low risk, or deviation of yield per acre from the average, for wheat and oats, and the entire Atlantic coast and the west coast.

The great corn belt, with its enormous production and surplus above local consumption, is also prone to great fluctuations of weather, market and disease in the production of corn, and while it would be going too far to say of this region as a whole that the results of its agriculture are other "a feast or a famine," yet there is a tendency in this direction as the area covered by the average becomes more restricted to county, township and individual farm.

The funeral, the time to be announced later, will be held from the home of the deceased's sister, Mrs. Fodigan in Pittsburgh.

His second wife survives, also several brothers and sisters living in the west.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 26, 1921

LOSS OF THE ZR-2 Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

How far we are from perfection of the airship, no one may say with authority. Only yesterday the Gazette Times printed this enthusiastic appraisal of the ZR-2 by an American man, who was to travel in the giant airship from England to our shore.

She is, undoubtedly, the last word in modern airship construction. He declared "she ought to make a most successful transatlantic cruise," but added with praiseworthy caution, "unless something unforeseen happens before the completion of the trial test."

At the ZR-2's failed and the first test-control stood off to the North Sea region. For the time the revolution in the airship was to give it a full trial.

In the all-boring put to every trial which her makers deemed essential to the development of her stability and control. The ZR-2 was bound back to the station when this something in-convene happened. There was an ex-losion, the great balloon caught fire and dropped into the River Humber.

This ends for a time the dream of establishing a new method of transport between the old and the New World.

But this disaster will prove but a temporary set-back to the success of an undertaking upon which the determination of man is fixed. Whether or not the dirigible balloon ever shall be a practical commercial vehicle will be established by experience. The long journey in cloudland across the Atlantic is feasible has been proved. The ZR-2 having traveled for 35 hours there is no reason to doubt that she can do it again on for 100 but for this unforeseen happening. What was done will have to be searched out.

The repetition of the error will be avoided.

The cost of human life of these failures is deplorable. Usually we regard it fortunate if accident overtakes an invention before it is given over to the serious business for which it was designed. But in this instance disaster on the trial trip imperiled twice as many lives as would have been lost had the explosion occurred on the transatlantic trip. Instead of only the American crew of 21 men which was to pilot the airship westward, there were approximately 30 British aviators and the craft. All 30 were precious lives, for these were of the pioneer type needed in the ex-perimentations which lead to the success of the material.

Plan to Stop Stream Pollution

Pittsburgh Post.

Those who have been leading the fight for the prevention of stream pollution will be greatly cheered by news from Washington that Congress has become interested in the subject. Representatives from districts bordering on the Ohio river met with the chief of the army engineer corps Monday to discuss the situation, and it was decided to offer an amendment to the Rivers and Harbors Bill prohibiting industrial establishments from discharging their waste matter into streams until it has gone through a neutralizing process and destructive acids have been eliminated. It was asserted that the process would be inexpensive.

In view of the immense damage which the contaminated water has done, it was inevitable that sooner or later pressure would have to be brought to bear upon those responsible for the pollution to make them stop their harmful practice. The United States engineer of war in Pittsburgh established by an investigation, hold in 1914 and 1915, in which 274 persons were interviewed, that adults in the Ohio river cause a loss of from $10,000,000 to $14,000,000 a year to the industries of Allegheny county by "corroding" boiler tubes and other metal objects. Plumbers concluded that the damage done to kitchen and bathroom fixtures added $3,000,000 a year to their bills. Launderers brought out that the hardness of the water made Pittsburgh people unusually heavy consumers of soap. The acid, it was developed, was hard on clothing as it destroyed the cellulose in the fibers of linen and cotton.

The mistake made by most of those who have tried to obtain relief from stream pollution was that instead of emphasizing these losses they harped on the killing of the fish and the interference with recreation. The Legislature has never been much impressed with these press. Owners of the mines and mills which have polluted the streams urged, with reason, that it was more important that they should be unhampered in their business than that the fishing should be good in Pennsylvania rivers.

This industrial loss, however, is corrosion of the steel work in locks and dams and steamboats and locomotives is a different matter. Notwithstanding the use of water purifying plants, like that of certain parts of the nation on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad is only one-third as great as on other divisions of the New York Central system. The damage which ought to be prevented, even if it does cost the offending establishments a little money to make their repairs innocuous before letting it drain into the rivers. And it, as General Beach says, he knows a way whereby the cost can be reduced to a small sum as compared with the damage done, coercion is justified.

Once the party of the streams has been restored, there is no reason why they should not again afford the good fighting for which they were once noted.

WRECK ALONG PIKE

Three Have Narrow Escape in Motor Crash Near Fort Necessity.

Three persons had narrow escapes from serious injury when a car driven by Harold Cargos of Hopwood collided with another machine near Fort Necessity, Pa., yesterday. "Cargos" is like a bellhop at the Summit hotel. He escaped with a slight cut on the right ear. The car in which Miss Hughes was riding was badly damaged.

Miss Jane Hughes, 25 years old, of Uptown, is suffering from bruises of the arm and body. Charles Smith of Pittsburg, a bellhop at the Summit hotel, received bruises of the left hand and lacerations on the right. Neither was seriously injured.

One of the party of the streams has been restored, there is no reason why they should not again afford the good
fighting for which they were once
noted.

AMERICA DISARMING

Philadelphia Ledger.

Secretary Weeks announces that he has cut the cost of the United States Army by half. The personnel has been reduced to 167,000; others have been eliminated.

There are Congressmen who would like to exact half that size, exclusive of the Philippines.

We have reduced the Navy personnel to a little more than 100,000 and dropped approximately 100,000,000 from the naval appropriation. Work in the construction yards has slowed down to where we are getting on with about 25 per cent of the authorized program.

There are two reasons for these happenings. One is economy and the other is that in the part of the American government and the people who make that government that understanding and confidence will have to be exacted.

We are exacting our part in our actions. Japan is continuing to build on her "5-5" program. Great Britain has authorized four more great battleships.

America has slackened her construction and the sound of hemisphere.

We are doing all that in the face of the world that it is to be a "War of the Pacific." If we are to fight Japan, it will be next year. In 1922

Japan will have a clear naval superiority in terms of big ships, speed and weight of metal. If both nations continue their programs we shall have outstripped Japan by 1925 and not longer.

Economy alone would not have allowed our speed and stayed hands. Disarmament sentiment has been the big factor.

America is taking certain steps to make our defenses more effective and sensible. We are also exacting our part in our actions.
